BUD SHARPE DEAD.

Former National League Player Succumbs on Stallings' Plantation.

PHILADELPHIA, June 2.—Bayard Heston Sharpe, or as he was better known, "Bud" Sharpe, formerly a big league ball player, is dead on George Stallings' plantation in Georgia, where he had been living for several years. His home was in West Chester. Sharpe was thirty-five years old, and made his first reputation as a ball player with the Brandywine of West Chester, and on the State College team. After graduating in 1903 he played on several professional teams, and finally was signed by the Boston Nationals as a first baseman. He hung on for several seasons, and then was released. Pittsburgh and Washington both gave him trials and he finally drifted back to Boston.

Again failing to find his own with the Braves, he went to Oakland, Cal., where he managed the Pacific coast team there, piloting it to the pennant. He gave up base ball, however, when Stallings, the Braves' manager, offered him charge of his plantation in Georgia.

LOSE FOURTH GAME

Nationals Drop Final of Red Sox Series, 1 to 0.

PITCHERS' BATTLE STAGED

Johnson and Ruth Do Splendid Work on Mound—Error Costly for Griffmen.

BY J. ED GRILLO.

BOSTON, June 2.—Though Johnson was scored on but once, as the result of an error, he lost the final game of the series here, the Red Sox making it four straight from the Nationals.

It was a good game of ball as far as it went, but had the Nationals fielded perfectly there would have been no runs. It was the inability to support Johnson that caused the defeat. The Nationals had many chances to score, but whenever the offer for runs came, some fielder played beside himself and pulled down a base hit which would have been productive under ordinary circumstances and the result was that they went nine innings without scoring.

The locals had no chance to score until the eighth, then they were presented with a run, which proved sufficient to win the game. It was not Johnson's fault, however, for he was invincible throughout the struggle and held the locals to four widely scattered hits.

Nationals Have Chances.

With the Nationals it was different. They had several chances, but at no time did they come through with the much needed hit, and, as a result, went scoreless. Here are the opportunities offered so many times:

For two innings they were retired in order, but in the third after one had been retired McBride hit safely to left, Judge was hit by a pitched ball, and with two on Morgan was struck out and Foster, who seemed ready to deliver a telling blow, hit a sharp grounder toward left, but Janvrin captured the sphere just as it was apparent that a run was about to score, and managed to throw Foster out at first, with two left on the bases. In the fifth Shanks walked, Almsmith sacrificed and it was up to McBride. He struck out, and then Judge sent a long line drive to center field, but Walker covered an acre of ground and, making a leap, caught the ball and retired the side.

In the sixth it seemed that the inning had come when the Red Sox were to be sent for, for at this time they had no runs, and here was an opportunity for several for Washington. There was one out, Morgan having been retired on a line drive to left. Then came Foster with a hit to left and Milan shot the ball to right. The situation never could look more desperate, but the hits to produce runs were not forthcoming. After that, however, there was nothing more doing with Ruth, who tightened up, and the Nationals were unable to reach the bases. Score:

PHILADELPHIA, June 2.—Miss Mollie Bjurstedt, holder of the national title, yesterday won her way into the final round of two events and the semi-final of the third in the Women's Pennsylvania and Eastern States tennis championships at the Merion Cricket Club.

In two singles matches Miss Bjurstedt defeated Miss Florence Ballin and Mrs. Robert Le Roy, both of the West Side Tennis Club, in straight sets, by the scores of 6-2, 6-0, 6-0 and 6-0, respectively. In the doubles Miss Bjurstedt and Miss Eleanor Sears reached the finals by defeating Miss Ballin and Miss Ina Kissel in the best played doubles match of the tournament to date, at 6-3, 6-1. In mixed doubles Miss Bjurstedt, partnered by William T. Tilden, 2d, gained the penultimate bracket by defeating Miss Edwina Hensel and A. E. McVetty, 6-1, 6-2.

The Giants, according to announcement, will not play off their two postponements in Chicago until their first trip around in August. Just why the delay is not made clear.

Griffmen Open First Series in West With Detroit Club

Special Dispatch to The Star.

DETROIT, Mich., June 2.—The Nationals arrived here this afternoon, little the worse for their long trip from Boston. The team, instead of being dismayed because of the four defeats in Boston, is set on working even harder in a desperate endeavor to win enough games out here to make up for them. The first game of the opening series is to be played tomorrow with Detroit. No announcement has yet been made as to the probable pitching selections.

PIRATES DROP KNABE.

Manager Callahan Pays Otto Splendid Tribute, However.

PITTSBURGH, June 2.—Infielder Otto Knabe was yesterday released unconditionally by the Pittsburgh National League club. Knabe was manager of the Baltimore Federal League team last season. Knabe's release was due to his inability to get into playing condition. He took on considerable weight during the winter and, deprived of a chance to go south this spring on a training trip, he was unable to get down to playing weight. He worked hard for the Pirates, but could not recover his old form.

Manager Jimmy Callahan said today he never felt so badly over being compelled to release a player.

"Knabe is one of those players who win a manager's heart," he said. "He would have been a great help to us if he could have got back into shape, for he has the hustling qualities and the spirit of a winner in addition to uncommon ability, and a club made up of players possessing his traits would walk away with any pennant."
